the bill amending the incorporation of the Maryland and Washington Railway Company. As explained to the House by Mr. Rusk, the bill is an amendment "to an existing charter extending the time for the completion of this road and arranging the manner in which it may enter the District. The road proper will be built in the state of Maryland, and will come into the District by way of Rhode Island avenue extended, the right of way to be acquired either by purchase or by condemnation. The road is to connect with an existing railroad, the Eckington and Soldiers' Home line, at North Capitol street. This road, therefore, does not ask for the right of way upon any streets in the city proper. will bring its passengers from Maryland to the District line, and they will pass into the city over the Eckington road, which is already in operation. I will state further," said Mr. Rusk, "that this road is the Washington end of the contemplated road in course of construction between Baltimore and Washington, which will be completed in a year or two, and will, of course, make a great reduction in the rate of fare between the two cities.'

No Overhead Trolley. An effort was made by Mr. Haines of New York to permit the use of the overhead trolley within the city limits, but the motion was lest.

The bill to incorporate the Washington, Burnt Mills and Sardy Spring Railway Company was also passed. As explained by Mr. McKaig-"This is a railroad started in Maryland, coming into the District for the purpose of connecting with the Eckington or Brightwood road, by the permission of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. This bill bill passed both the Serate and House in the Fifty-second Congress, but failed of approval for the want of time. It is a trolley road which runs into the country northeast of the city, through a fine agricultural country, and it is intended as a road to develop that region. When the original bill was referred to the Commissioners they disagreed as to the route which the should take in coming into the city. The incorporators of the road went before the Commissioners, and agreed with the Commissioners to accept the route herein named, connecting with the Eckington or Brightwood road, whichever they may de-

The bill was amended so as to prohibit the running of freight cars into the city, and granting the charter for fifty years, instead of making it perpetual. The bill to incorporate the Washington and Marlboro' railway was taken up, but the hour for the Friday evening recess arrived before the bill was passed.

A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE. North Dakota's Legislature Honors the

Memory of Senator Hansbrough's Wife The recent meeting of the North Dakota legislature in joint memorial session to express the common sorrow that prevails throughout North Dakota over the death at 7:30 o'clock. of Mrs. Hansbrough, the wife of the senior Senator from that state, is perhaps the first instance of the kind on record. There is not in mind a similar occurrence as transpiring in any other commonwealth of the Union, and it will ever stand as a credit to the new north state that its legislature is the first to meet in joint memorial session to pay tribute to the memory of a able assemblage were of a most interesting nature, the speeches by prominent sena-tors and members of the legislature being unusuany eloquent and touching. Up-on the announcement of the death of Mrs. Hansbrough both houses of the legislature, then in session at Bismarck, immediate y adjourned, committees of the two branches were appointed to draft resolutions, and a week later the two houses met in joint ses-

Lieut. Gov. Worst presided, and made a feeling address, speaking of the suffering uncomplainingly endured by Mrs. Hans-brough for over four years. The joint committee on resolutions presented its re-port, extending the sympathy of the legis-lature of the state to the Senator in the time of his bereavement. Remarks were made, in seconding the resolution, by Repesentatives Prosser of Ramsay county and Edwards of Cass, and Senators Day of Ramsay, Gregory of Ward, Stevens of Dickey, and Burke of Rolette, after which the resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, and this remarkable legislative session adjourned. The friends of Senator Hansbrough in Washington who had the pleasure of knowing Mrs. Hansbrough in her life have been deeply grateful for this touching mark of the esteem in which her memory is held by her husband's asso-clates in his state.

NATHANIEL H. R. DAWSON DEAD. He Was Appointed Commissioner o Education by Mr. Cleveland.

Selma, Ala., yesterday. He was born in Charleston, S. C. In 1842 his family removed to Alabama. He studied at St. Joseph's College, Mobile, and afterward entered the legal profession. He was twice a member of the state legislature and once speaker of the lower house. He managed the Cleveland campaign in Alabama in 1884, and afterward became candidate for gov ernor, but was defeated. He was appointed United States commissioner of education in position as a legal practitioner in his own state was prominent.

The Elbe Catastrophe.

To the Editor of The Evening Star: Will you kindly grant me sufficient space o offer up a few words of defense in behalf of the hero, K. von Goessel, whose lips are now sealed forever? I enjoyed the proud distinction of being ranked among his friends, whose names were legion; indeed, every person that ever came in contact with this nature's nobleman learned to love and admire the man, possessing, as he did to such a remarkable degree, every sterling quality that should adorn the perfect sailor. With the knowledge of these facts, I indignantly repel those insinuations which so many of our newspaper critics in other cities are at present engaging in. I consider it in wretched taste to accuss the officers of the ill-fated Elbe of cowardice, lack of discipline, &c., when the evidence already before us proves that twenty of the twenty-three officers perished at their posts, their gallant leader, K von Goessel, faithful to his calling, remaining to the last moment on the bridge sinking to the bottom with his vessel. All honor to his memory and to those under his command; they deserve praise and not censure. The circumstance that 90 per cent of the crew were engulfed in the ky waters should eloquently exonerate them from unmerited blame, but the loss of so many lives should be properly charged to the scoundrels who, after committing the injury, abandoned the foundering Elbe to the mercy of the waves. Nor can fault be found with the equipment of the ship. An often-repeated experience has taught me that the boats of the North German-Lloyd are abundantly furnished with all lifesaving contrivances, to which I bear willing testimony, for the reason that it was only on September 1 of last year, when a passenger on the Elbe and encountering a terrible storm, our machinery broke down in mid-ocean, and we were only delayed eight hours, as the vessel carried duplicate parts, to be used in such a contingency, finally reaching port on schedule time. I do not believe any human ingenuity can protect lives when in zero weather a similar ccllision ensues, and the aggressor, after striking the death blow, runs away a la wholesale prices remained, on the whole, absolutely stationary, the only marked changes observable being in butter, eggs and poultry, in which prices slightly advanced. But, while it is true that only live lambs and small and neat dressed hogs also showed a slight advance, the market in comparatively all products remained firm and steady, there being no overpro-The House yesterday afternoon passed duction sufficient in any to weaken the market as a whole. Throughout the week the demand exhausted the supply in no product, and indications point to a generally stronger demand for all staple stocks. While the weather was not favorable to an active market, it was not disagreeable enough to seriously influence either shippers or purchasers.

Butter was disappointing, buyers de-clining except where necessary. That and the fact that receipts continued liberal were responsible for an unsettled market, dull and far from strong. Fancy, fresh creameries and extra firsts continued at reduced prices, and for that reason those grades were much sought for, the lower grades being correspondingly neglected. Receivers, therefore, constantly unloaded to prevent accumulations. Country roll was of poor quality and sold low. Fair to good creamery fell from 18 to 16, prime New York tubs from 20 to 19 and good New York tubs from 18 to 16.

Eggs showed an advance, the market gradually stiffening throughout the week. Near by fresh and near by western fresh and southern advanced a point, from 24 to 25 and from 23 to 24, respectively, the prices for other grades remaining stationary.
In poultry the market not only remained firm, but it gives good indications of so continuing. For that reason liberal shipments are advised. All grades of turkeys advanced from 1 to 2 cents, 10 cents per pound being the average price. Chickens, ducks and geese showed a similar ad-While there was a good demand for well-

In dressed hogs a stronger market than that of the preceding week ruled. Calves, prime ones, were scarce, and a firm market resulted, prices having an upward tendency. For common grades, stationary prices. In oranges and other fruits, fresh and dried, in potatoes, onicns and similar products, and in hay, straw and grain, there was no observable change in supply, de-
